

LITERARY ITEMS.

The Boston Transcript announces that a M. de Lagarigue of that city has been engaged for more than four years on a cyclopedic of naval science which is to be the most comprehensive work on that subject ever published.

For some months past The London Saturday Review has been set up, in type, the separate letters of which are joined together with a sort of gum cement, so that short words and parts of words are lifted from the case by the compositor in one operation, instead of picking up each separate and distinct letter. It is understood that this modern adaptation of the older method of typesetting, long-practiced in a complete measure, the multiplicity of the type boxes and difficulty of remembering the places of all the varied combinations of letters rendering the process slow and tedious.

Appletons' Journal gives the following as the ages of living American authors, announcing that the list has been compiled with great care by G. C. Verplanck:

St. Richard, 78; John Greenleaf Whittier, 70; John P. Kennedy, 75; Dr. Hale, 74; Wm. Cullen Bryant, 73; Stephen H. Tyng, Francis Lieber, and George Bancroft, 70; Wm. H. Seward, and Catherine E. Beecher, 69; Mrs. E. A. Stetson, Lady Principal.
